MAIL BID SALE CLOSING DATE JUNE 30, 1992

Mail bids must be postmarked no later than the above date, fax bids must be received no later than 5:30 p.m. Pacific Time.

We are very pleased to present this diverse selection of collectibles offered for sale by mail bid only. The sale begins with a collection of memorabilia from the World's Columbian Exposition held 100 years ago. This collection was assembled over the past 30 years and contains many unique and unusual items worthy of strong bids, as many may not appear on the market again for years to come. Foreign coin collectors will find over 1,200 lots to choose from, including many nice affordable collector coins that normally could not be offered at one of our regular floor bid auctions. Philatelic offerings include both U.S. and Foreign stamps in a special bid or buy section. This allows the collector to purchase outright any item for the price listed or bid the amount one is willing to pay. Special notice should be given to the 45 lots of Oriental art and jewelry. These items are all the property of Superior and no reasonable bids will be refused. The selection of Olympic items offered for sale represents a sneak preview of the type of material to be offered in our July sports sale and should be of interest to collectors and non-collectors alike. Ancient coin enthusiasts will find a nice selection of new material, and we expect competitive bidding for the many nice collector coins being offered. The sale concludes with a selection of U.S. coins all certified by PCGS or NGC. This is the perfect opportunity for the collector to acquire investment quality coins at near-wholesale prices.

If you have questions about any of the lots or need any further descriptions, please give us a call. Examine the catalog carefully, as there are many interesting items that will appeal to a wide-range of collectors.

THE DOUGLAS C. DANIELS COLLECTION OF COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION MEMORABILIA

In 1953, Doug Daniels inherited a Columbian Exposition half dollar from his great-grandmother, beginning an accumulation of half dollars now numbering in the hundreds. Shortly afterward, at the age of ten, one of his classmates showed him a medal from the Columbian Exposition and the following collection was born. He started buying every book he could find about the World's Columbian Exposition and for the next 37 years never saw a Columbian Expo piece he didn't like, and usually bought. When word got around that he was buying these pieces, they started to be offered to him by the score, and he chose to purchase only rare and high grade items. When Father Flanigans's Boys' Town put the Curtis Collection up for sale, Doug was fortunate to be able to acquire it. The same was true with the Clio Harper Collection in Little Rock, Arkansas. Doug wants to thank Charles Kirtley and Benj Fauver for all of their help through the years.

Examine these listings carefully, as there are many wonderful and unusual pieces to be found among them, and some are not photographed. Every effort has been made to describe the pieces as accurately as possible, but if you need any additional information please feel free to call for a more thorough description. Many of these pieces are unique or seldom offered for sale, so strong bids are recommended to avoid the disappointment of not acquiring part of this fabulous collection.

THE CLIO HARPER COLLECTION

81. This lot contains the personal belongings of Clio Harper, a visitor to the Columbian Expositin and roving reporter for the Boone Banner Newspaper out of Harrison (near Little Rock) Arkansas. Being a roving reporter, Clio Harper travelled around quite a bit to cover stories away from home base. Being on the road quite often with Arkansas State Representatives, Harper had an "in" with the Arkansas officials and used this special relationship to get all kinds of special privilage passes at the Columbian Exposition.

Being basically a country-boy, Harper was curious about all of the new technology and modern devices on display at the Exposition and made notes or kept ads on many of them. Some of the items offered here are absolutely unique. The 1892 Telautogram was a FAX machine 100 years ahead of its time and Harper's sample from it is very illuminating. Items from this unique collection include part of the flag which flew over the Arkansas Building, numerous advertisements and ticket stubs, Arkansas related pieces, passes for special events and meal tickets, business cards collected (including several of Harper's own, including one with reads "This was written on a desk that belonged to Geo. Washington. Massachusetts Bldg. Oct 20, 1893. World's Fair."), color advertising cards, and Harper's own photo press pass.

This group includes over 40 items and shoud be inspected to gain full appreciation of its significance. While looking at Harper's photo in his press pass and reading his notes, one gets transported back to the Exposition and gets a sense of what it might have been like to attend this magnificant World's Fair . . . . . ($500 and up)
